

Do You Feel This Way?

Do you feel all tired out? Do you sometimes think you just can't work away at your profession or trade any longer? Do you have a poor appetite, and lay awake at night unable to sleep? Are your nerves all gone, and your stomach too? Has ambition to force ahead in the world left you? If so, you might as well put a stop to your misery. You can do it if you will. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will make you a different individual. It will set your lazy liver to work. It will set things right in your stomach, and your appetite will come back. It will purify your blood, and if there is any tendency in your family toward consumption, it will keep that dread destroyer away. Even after consumption has almost gained a foothold in the form of a lingering cough, bronchitis, or bleeding at the lungs, it will bring about a cure in 98 per cent. of all cases. It is a remedy prepared by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose advice is given free to all who wish to write him. His great success has come from his wide experience and varied practice. Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good." Dr. Pierce's medicines are or known counterfeits. Their every ingredient printed on their wrappers. Made from roots without alcohol. Contain no habit-forming drugs. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED ONLY MONEY'S WORTH.

Example of the Workings of the "New England Conscience."

A woman who has spent many summers at Haines' Falls in the Catskills tells the following story:

"A mountain wagon full of summer excursionists stopped at the hotel one morning. They wanted to see the falls. In order to assure a good flow of water there is a sort of lock built above the falls. The lock is always kept closed except when somebody makes application to see the falls; then, on payment of a quarter, the gates are thrown open and a fine flow of water pours forth. The old man who had charge of the falls went out and opened the gates; the visitors were delighted, paid their quarter and drove away. About half an hour later another wagonload drove up to the hotel and asked to see the falls. Again the old man went out and opened the gates; but owing to the previous drain on the water supply the result was far from satisfactory, and the spectators were not enthusiastic. The old man noticed the dissatisfaction of the visitors, and was, perhaps, somewhat conscience-stricken, for when he was offered a quarter to pay for opening the gates, he hesitated a moment, then said:

"No, it wasn't worth that much. I think there was just 'bout 17 cents' worth that time."

Kedgerie of Fish.
Put a gill of thick cream into a steamer with one and a half ounces of butter and season with a pinch of salt and a tiny dust of paprika; boil up all together, then mix with six large tablepoons of any cold cooked fish, two large tablepoons of plainly-boiled rice, and four hard-boiled eggs that are cut up in small pieces; just let the kedgerie boil up, and then turn out on to a hot dish in a pile. Serve for a breakfast dish.

LANDSLIDE IS CLEARED AWAY AT TENNESSEE PASS

For a number of days up to yesterday morning the Denver & Rio Grande railway has been tied up at Tennessee Pass, in Colorado, because of a huge landslide there. For more than a week past trains have been detained at Grand Junction and by way of the Colorado Midland through Glenwood Springs.

This has meant that a longer time has had to be taken in making the trip from Ogden to Denver than usual, the distance is a little farther by way of Glenwood than by way of Salida and Canon City. Railroad officials here yesterday made the statement that the debris occasioned by the slide at the pass had been cleared away and the trains are now permitted to run over the Denver & Rio Grande track.

The damage done to the track at the Tennessee Pass was almost incalculable, and it is said that for some days the engineers despaired of repairing the break. They have succeeded in doing so, however, and the railroad officials appreciate the fact that regular traffic has been resumed. The company is grateful to the Colorado Midland for the courtesy extended in carrying traffic for the Rio Grande trains. Had it not been for this courtesy the east would have been cut off from the west in so far as the road over the Rio Grande rails is concerned.

LIKE CAPTURING A BATTERY.

Henry Watterson's First Entry Into the Journalistic Field.

"Marse Henry" Watterson, the famous editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, was as original in starting into journalism as in everything that he does and says.

It was just after the civil war and Watterson in the ragged regimentals of a confederate officer was casting about for some means of getting a little food into his stomach. He happened to get hold of a copy of the old Louisville Herald, and, after studying it a while, that peculiar purposeful look settled over his face. He arose and tramped majestically down to the Herald shop and into the presence of the venerable editor.

"Well, sir," growled the old man, for he was exceedingly busy.

"You want an editorial writer, and I am the man for the post," said the young man soldier, as unabashed as an iceberg.

"Well, who in the—say! Well, who had the unmitigated gall to tell you that we needed an editorial writer, and who in blazes are you, and say, what on earth makes you think we are plining for an editorial writer?" The aged editor paused for breath.

"Humph!" said Watterson, as emotionally as a granite block. "Anybody could say that by reading your paper!" He got the job—Livingston Wright, in Gunther's Magazine.

23:15 O'Clock.
A New York manufacturing concern in which only one-half of the employees work in the daytime has a 24-hour clock in the timekeeper's office, by which the work record is noted. The business day begins at one o'clock in the morning, and when other clocks indicate midnight this factory timepiece shows that it is 24 o'clock. The men who work at the time, ordinarily known as six p. m., are recorded as having started at 18 o'clock. The people in charge of the work say that this change in the timekeeping method has prevented many errors, and although it took the men a little while to become accustomed to it they now speak of 14 and 16 o'clock in a matter-of-fact way and without the smile which at first the strange figures provoked.

Depopulated by Sleeping Sickness.
Fajao as a native town was no more. At hardly any point in Uganda has the sleeping sickness made such frightful ravages. At least 6,000 persons had perished in the last two years. Almost the whole population had been swept away.

Scarcely enough remained to form the deputation, who in their white robes could be discerned at the entrance to the cleared area of the camping ground. And this cleared area was itself of the utmost importance, for all around it the powers of evil were strong. The groves which fringed and overhung the river swarmed with tsetse flies of newly replenished venom and approved malignity, and no man could enter them except at a risk—Winston Churchill in Strand Magazine.

How to Keep Young.
It is true that the neophobia of the old has its cause in mental attitude rather than in physical decay. It is not that the mental power is less, but it is natural for a man to rely on the thinking he did in his twenties and to refuse to reopen questions he "settled" half a lifetime ago.

This atrophy of thought can be avoided if the danger is foreseen, and a man deliberately forms the habit of breaking thought habits. It can be borne on a stream of social change and that, instead of trusting to the perspective in which things appeared in his youth, he must look and look again—From Social Psychology, by E. A. Ross.

Be Courteous at Home.
As in ordinary family life, politeness and courtesy are never out of place. We cannot all of us be always cheerful or always witty and agreeable; we cannot always shine, and I do not know that it would not be very tiresome if we could. But we can always keep ourselves stocked with the blessed small change of life which sweetens the path of mortal existence so surely and so delightfully. You know the old saw: Politeness costs little and buys much. Well, politeness, seasoned with kindness, is the best favoring that can be given in life.—John Strange Winter.

On the Value of Experience.
The learning thou gettest by thine own observation and experience is far beyond that thou gettest by precept, and the knowledge of a traveler exceeds that which is got by reading.—Thomas a Kempis.

ASSISTANT FORESTER CONFERES WITH LEAVITT

Assistant Forester C. S. Chapman, of the forest service at Washington, D. C., has been spending several days in this vicinity conferring with District Forester Leavitt of the local offices and going over various matters of importance. Mr. Chapman is much pleased with Ogden and states that the affairs of the fourth district are in excellent condition. He recently visited the Denver headquarters, and will inspect at two or three other points before returning to Washington.

Mr. Chapman is familiar with the White Mountain forest problem in New Hampshire and deprecates the failure of congress to provide for proper conservation in that district. This territory is in private ownership and is the center of the great pulp manufacturing industry. The quantity of valuable wood, including the smallest trees to great giants of the forest, which is being consumed daily in the White Mountain forest is astounding, and congress has been petitioned for many years to stop the waste by purchasing the forest outright and instituting sane methods of control and use. The bill introduced at the last session of congress to relieve the situation was allowed to be laid on the table, which means that no action can be taken for some time. Tariff matters being apparently paramount at the next session, it is improbable that anything can be done for another year. Meanwhile the consumption of young timber will continue, the pulp manufacturers stripping the watersheds of that region with the impunity which they have enjoyed for many years.

Interesting Railroad Facts.

In one year, 1907, one man, with the aid of modern railroad appliances, was able to move one ton of freight 139,960 miles, and one passenger 16,397 miles. A man with a good team of two horses and a wagon on roads better than the average American road would be doing well to haul 1½ tons 30 miles, six days in the week, or 15,000 ton miles per year, leaving no time for passenger transportation. At this rate it would require more than ten men and 20 horses to do the freight transportation which one man does with a railroad and without any horses; and to carry the freight traffic which the railroads of this country carried last year, 17,500,000 men and 25,000,000 horses would be required, instead of the 1,672,000 men who actually not only effected the transportation of all this freight, but of all the passenger traffic also. The improvements since 1899 alone have enabled 1,672,000 men to do what in 1899 would have required 700,000 more.—Railroad Age-Gazette.

Philosophical.
The only woman that any man will acknowledge as his superior is his mother. Therefore to be truly appreciated every woman should have a son. A husband knows, too, when his wife is wonderful, but something keeps him from saying so. Makes him look less wonderful, and that's not proper ever.—Exchange.
